Norplant Local woman among 1st to get new device

By Ron Sammons
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Norplant, the five-year birth control device recently approved by the Food and Drug Administration, has already made its mark in the Metro East.

Katherine Johnson of Granite City is one of the first in the area to undergo the in-office procedure, which was performed by Dr. Yogendra Shah, a board-certified physician in the field of obstetrics and gynecology.

According to Shah, the device consists of six small flexible silicon capsules that release a synthetic progestin hormone, called levonorgestrel.

The hormone is continuously released from the body for five years and prevents pregnancy in two ways. First, it inhibits ovulation, and second it causes the mucus of the cervix to thicken, thus preventing the sperm from reaching the egg, he said.

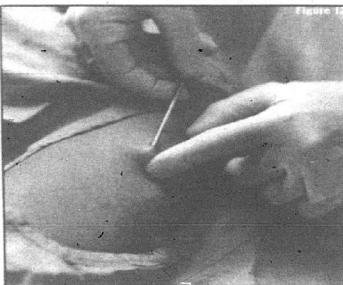

Levonorgestrel is one of the active ingredients used in many oral contraceptives in the U.S. today.

The capsules, which are 1.3 inches long, are inserted into the upper arm, just above the elbow, in a fan-shaped fashion, he said. "Norplant cannot be seen by the naked eye, but it can be felt under the skin's surface if you press down on the area," Shah said.

The 15 to 20 minute procedure is performed in the doctor's office and requires only a local anesthesia, he said. "It is completely reversible, and can be removed at any time. Also, there are no scars, because stitches aren't used."

They are inserted within seven days of the menstrual period, or at the time of the period, Shah said. "It can also be done immediately after a baby's birth, or prior to another pregnancy."

The implant will not hinder physical activity, he said. "You can do all normal activities, and carry on usual everyday tasks." Possible side effects include menstrual irregularities and occasional minor headaches, but these phase out after the first year, he said.

Norplant's failure rate is less than one percent, which is comparable to birth control pills, he said. "It has been tested for 20 years on over 500,000 women world-wide, and has been available in other countries for quite awhile now."

However, Shah suggests that Norplant may not be suitable for everyone. Patients that should not use it are those with breast cancer, liver problems, undiagnosed vaginal bleeding, blood clots or females that are already pregnant.

"It is for those patients who are not sure about sterilization or want children immediately. It is also good for females that can't take estrogen," he said. "Norplant is a good alternative to birth control."

Market to close

Era ending for Schermers

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

MADISON — In August, for the first time in 38 years, the city will no longer have a Schermers' Market.

Owner Dave Schermers confirmed Wednesday that he will be closing his grocery store at 1127 Madison Ave., but he said an exact date has not been set. Schermers said the closing will have no effect on Schermers' Garden Shop at 1201 Madison Ave.

Schermers said his employees had been given notice of the closing and, as the word has spread, more people have told him it is hard to imagine Madison without a Schermers' Market. "I certainly appreciate that attitude," he said. "We've been here since 1953. But 38 years is a successful and long life. Now is forever. We don't live forever, and neither do businesses."

Schermers said the closing is a business decision, that his wife was instrumental in helping him compete in the grocery business. He said business finally reached the point that it was "in everyone's best interest" just to close the store.

I've had a hard time, personally, dealing with the closure," Schermers said. "I've been here all my life — it's not easy for me to think about it not being here. It's sad. But as a business man I know it has to be done."

Schermers stressed that the store is closing, not being sold. But he said, "I own the building and, in the long haul, I can tell you I expect it to be occupied."

$2 million bond issue planned for TIF work

By Bob Slaten
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The City Council voted Tuesday to hire Kane, McKenna and Associates Inc. to prepare a $2 million general obligation bond issue for the city.

The money would be used to attract developers to projects in the city's tax increment finance district, and the debt would be retired over a 17-year period, using TIF revenues, said Alan Orthals, economic development director.

Among the uses proposed for the funds is hiring of a full-time building inspector in the TIF district, acquisition and demolition of property and establishment of a revolving loan program for existing businesses that want to improve their property. If TIF revenue would fall short of the estimated $247,000 annual payment on the bonds, the city would pay the difference from other funds, Orthals said. The exact interest rate on the bonds has not yet been determined, but the $247,000 figure is based on the current market rate of about 10 percent, Orthals said.

The city receives TIF funds from the state based on property taxes, and any increased sales taxes generated in the tax increment district.

Orthals said the city should receive about $285,000 in TIF revenue this year, giving the city a $38,000 "cushion" after paying off annual debt service and barring any unforeseen changes in the TIF law by the state Leg.

American Steel shutting down

GRANITE CITY — American Steel Foundries will temporarily shut down operations next week for an unspecified length of time, officials said Wednesday.

The Granite City plant had been scheduled for a routine vacation shutdown the week of July 15 and July 22, according to Works Manager Bill Donovan, but "a sudden down-turn in railroad freight-car building" prompted the temporary closing.

In a prepared statement, Donovan said the plant "is temporarily suspending operations as of July 5, 1991.... While no date has been set for the resumption of operations, we hope that the period of layoff will be relatively short."

Donovan declined to speculate on the length of the shut-down.

The foundry makes bolsters and side frames for the truck, or wheel assembly, of railroad cars.

The Granite City foundry, which currently employs more than 300 people, closed its doors in December due to a slow market and was placed in "mothballs." It remained inactive until late 1988, when a small crew of maintenance workers was recalled to begin the process of preparing the foundry for reopening.

The foundry was reopened in February 1989 and was put back in operation, with approximately 200 employees, in June 1989. A second shift was added last year.

At the height of its operation in 1970-80, the foundry employed 1,850 workers and was the largest maker of railroad trucks in the United States.

Hearing for killing suspect

DADE CITY, Fla. — A man convicted of murdering two people from the Granite City area in a bizarre case of mistaken identity has been returned to death row, but officials said it will be several weeks before he will get a hearing for a new trial.

John Boggs, 58, of Vermillion, Ohio, was convicted in November 1988 in Putnam County on two counts of first-degree murder and was sentenced to death for the shooting deaths in February 1988 of Nigel Maeras, 70, of Arlington Heights, and Harold Rush, 69, of Granite City. Maeras was the widow of former Madison Mayor Stephen Maeras.

In April, however, the Florida Supreme Court ordered a new trial for Boggs after a ruling by Pasco County judges had held in ruling, without an expert evaluation, that Boggs was competent to stand trial.

Assistant Pasco County State's Attorney Paul Van Allen said Wednesday that Boggs had been returned to Dade City and is in the process of being evaluated by psychiatric experts chosen by both the prosecution and the defense.

Van Allen said that, under Florida law, if there is a question,

"That's what the people of Madison elected him for and paid him to legislate, not keep the peace."

He said he was aware under state law that an alderman is a conservator of the peace and has the power of arrest.

This is authority given by state and not by the City of Madison, he sympathized with Mike and the seriousness of his injuries.

"But I don't believe he was directed by the City Council or the police officer to whom he did his act," he said. "He acted on his own as a private citizen and placed himself at risk."

MADISON — A claim for workers' compensation by an alderman against the city will be "vigorously opposed," according to the wording of a motion passed Tuesday night by the Madison City Council.

Third Ward Alderman Michael Vrabec sustained injuries on July 4, 1989, when he was involved in an incident and attempted to make an arrest.

Antonio Avila, 42, of the 4700 block of Rhodes Street, Madison, was arrested on a felony warrant charging aggravated battery in the case. A 16-year-old Madison youth also was arrested for his involvement.

Vrabec said he was driving home early July 4 from a friend's house heading east on Sixth Street when a man ran up to his car and started hitting the car with a bat. The younger man with Avila also hit the car, the alderman alleged.

Vrabec said he started to back his car down the street to avoid the pair and struck an unoccupied car parked in the 1700 block of Sixth Street.

Vrabec got out of his vehicle to defend himself and advised the two assailants that he was a Madison alderman and they were under arrest, he said. At that point, Avila and his younger companion began hitting him with the bats, Vrabec alleged.

A resident reported see what was happening and began swinging a wooden handle at the two assailants who ran away, Vrabec said. Avila was arrested in the area.

The alderman was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where treatment of fractures to the jaw and hand and two large lacerations to the head, requiring 32 stitches, and numerous bruises.

The incident, which occurred two years ago, came to the council's attention after the copy of a letter and an application for adjustment of a claim, sent to the Industrial Commission in Chicago, was received by the city attorney.

Granite City Attorney William W. Schooley sent the letter, submitting his name as the attorney of record for Vrabec.

Voting to modify the insurance carrier, Illinois Municipal Insurance Co., to "vigorously oppose this action" were Aldermen George Amisch, Andy Economy, Ralph Miller, Charles

The basement of a newly completed house in the Dobrey Slough area may jeopardize Granite City's nearly $7 million in flood insurance, according to David Schein of the Federal Emergency Management Agency. The city is in a FEMA-managed flood insurance program.

A proposed state legislative map would move Venice and parts of Madison out of Rep. Sam Wolf's district and into the district of Rep. Wyvett Younge, D-East St. Louis. "I was sad to lose Venice," said Wolf, D-Glendale City. "... I was born and raised there."

The last steel beam for the St. Elizabeth Medical Center's new Doctors Office Building was put in place Friday. Associates of the hospital signed the beam before it was put into place. The three-story, $3.8 million addition is scheduled to be completed in early 1992.

With 85 sites identified as potentially contaminated, the Metro East may be the state's second largest depository of contaminated waste. In Madison County, the Quad City area leads the way with 15 potentially contaminated sites — nine in Granite City, three in Venice, two in Madison and one in Pontoon Beach. Madison also has a site, the Milan Landfill, in St. Clair County.

Construction on a proposed multi-million dollar steel processing plant in the Granite City area could begin as early as July as a result of approval of $9 million in bonds to help finance the Robinson Steel Co. project. Mary Kane, executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority, announced at a public hearing Monday morning.

Since the state has billions of dollars to invest, Illinois Treasurer Pat Quinn said Monday it is time for Illinois to invest in Illinois. Quinn said he is making sure that the state's savings-and-loans that receive state deposits are reinvesting them into the community. Under his plan, Quinn said, a lot more banks and savings-and-loans are getting state deposits. But, he said, they are agreeing to a higher deposit-to-loan ratio in order to keep them.

Stephen P. Six, 24, of the 2800 block of Idaho Avenue was arrested at 5:30 p.m. June 21 after allegedly attempting to have an illegal prescription filled.

An officer was dispatched to Walgreen's, 3801 Nameoki Rd., where a pharmacist told him a man using the name Stephen Blaze was attempting to pick up a prescription he had written by Dr. Juan Rios, but which Rios denied writing.

The man was arrested telling police his name was Stephen Blaze. But a telephone call was received at the police station informing officers if Stephen Six had been arrested. It was determined that Blaze was actually Six.

Six was charged with unlawful acquisition of a controlled substance and obstructing a peace officer. He was released on $204 bail.

Two arrested

Curtis A. Walker, 38, of the 2100 block of Grand Avenue and Ruby L. Hall, 27, of the 2200 block of Washington Avenue were arrested at 7:30 p.m. June 17 and each charged with battery.

Officers were dispatched to the Washington Avenue address in reference to a fight. Hall told officers that Walker hit her in the head several times and kicked her in the stomach while they were on the front porch of her home.

Walker said Hall scratched his neck and right arm with her fingernails.

Hall and Walker were allowed to sign counter-complaints, and each was released on $52 cash bail.

DUI alleged

Robert R. Dunham, 47, of the 2100 block of Lee Avenue was arrested at 2 p.m. June 19 and charged with DUI.

Officers responding to an accident at 20th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue were met by Steven D. Laws of Mascoutah, who told them he was stopped at a red light in the eastbound lane of Niedringhaus Avenue when his tractor-trailer was struck by a yellow and brown 1978 Chevrolet pickup truck.

He said the driver of the pickup, later identified as Dunham, got out of his vehicle, asked Laws if he was alright, returned to his pickup and drove away.

Laws reported the vehicle registration to the officers, one of whom went to the Dunham residence and found met Dunham's wife. She told the officers the pickup truck belonged to her husband, who she said was in the house and intoxicated.

Dunham was returned to the scene, where he was identified by Laws.

He was released on a notice to appear in court.

Warrant arrest

Barry W. Church, 30, of the 2100 block of Robert Avenue was arrested at 2 p.m. June 19 and charged with battery and causing damage to property.

Dawn Veach, 25, of Parkview Apartments told officers Church broke into her home at about 10:30 p.m. June 2 and beat her about the Witnesses allege Church cut telephone lines to the apartment prior to the incident.

Nearly 1,000 seek county 911 jobs

EDWARDSVILLE — Not any old couch potato can handle dispatching duties for the county's upcoming 911 emergency telephone system.

But almost 1,000 people applied for five 911 emergency telecommunicator positions last week at the Sheriff's Department.

Officials credit the state of the economy for competition for local jobs and the success of the new positions with much of the turnout. But at least some applicants may have been inspired by television shows glorifying police work and glorifying 911 dispatching jobs.

"It has aroused people's interest," Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich said, referring to shows like Rescue 911, Top Cops, Cops and On the Scene: Emergency Response.

"Everything with the 911 shows are exciting, but favorable," Churchich said.

The Sheriff's Department accepted applications for the dispatching jobs from Monday through Friday last week. As many as 300 people a day filled out applications.

Madison County Chief Deputy Coroner Ralph Baahmann Jr. said economic considerations were the chief issues for most applicants. But he agreed with Churchich that television may have played a part in the large number of applicants.

"(Rescue) 911 might be one of the top 10, which means a lot of people are watching," he said. "I expect there's some who got the idea from seeing that."

The 911 emergency number has even made it into cartoons.

In a recent episode of The Simpsons, Homer Simpson, who worked his son Bart, had run away from home and was in trouble — dialed zero and frantically said, "Operator, give me the number for 911."

The coroner pointed out that interest in his line of work soared after Quincy, M.E., a television show starring Jack Klugman as a medical examiner became popular. He also said the movie Backdraft will probably spark more people's interest in becoming firefighters.

Baahmann estimated 20 percent of the applicants are interested in the job because of televised on-scene emergencies.

Members of the Madison County Sheriff's Merit Commission responsible for sift through the applicants, "freaked out" at the number and quality of applicants, Churchich said.

"Some of them we could put to work tomorrow," the sheriff said, adding that several applicants came from people who now dispatch for area police departments.

Job security and a starting pay of more than $25,000 were factors in attracting professional dispatchers, he said.

Madison gets new fire truck

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

MADISON — A new rescue/pumper fire truck will be delivered this week to the Madison Volunteer Fire Department.

Mayor John Bellcoff has secured more than $80,000 in donations from area industries and major business firms to help pay for the $121,000 vehicle, he reported at Tuesday night's meeting of the City Council.

"Rich and I still have a few more calls to make (seeking donations)," Bellcoff said. He was referring to City Comptroller Richard Tutka.

"The cost to the taxpayers for the equipment should be very minimal," Bellcoff said.

"Everyone involved in this project has been very nice about helping us. There are a few people we haven't seen yet and we'll be calling on them," the mayor added.

The 1991 rescue/pumper truck was purchased from Banner Fire Equipment Co. of Collinsville for $120,839.

The truck has a Ford chassis and Ford diesel motor and is equipped with Emergency I equipment.

"Of course, it's red and white," Bellcoff said.

Fire department members are planning a busy weekend, transferring equipment over to new vehicle.

Members of the Madison Fire Department recently were appointed by Bellcoff and approved by the City Council. Department members are:

Robert Robbins, fire chief; Charles Foley, assistant chief; Robert Bosworth, captain; Don Whitecotton, lieutenant.

Firemen — Joe Bisto, Jeff Bridick, Andy Economy, Robert Hollenbeck, Ed Hoover, Robert Papa, Mark Rhoads, Jim Shipcoff, Delbert Sipes, Kevin Sipes, Steve Watson and George Wallace.

Probationary firemen — Steve Bridick, Tom Cass, John Lake and Danny Sipes.

Cadets — Brad Arnold, Raymond Burris, Preston Green, Gerald Hughes, Robbie Poston, Morris Ricketts, Tom Schiller and Don Wilson Jr.

The appointments are a yearly requirement.

Public hearing here tonight

The Illinois Department of Public Health will conduct a public hearing at the Granite City Township Hall, 2061 Delmar Ave., tonight at 7 p.m. A health testing program related to the Environmental Protection Agency's proposed plan to clean-up the Tracer lead pile and other allegedly contaminated sites in the Quad-City Area, will be explained and discussed.

Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse urged all area residents to attend.

"We need to show these people we are interested in what is going on in the area. This concerns everyone in the Tri-Cities area," Cruse said.

Bill aims at credit cards

Merchants would no longer be permitted to enter shoppers' private credit card numbers on checks written for purchases, under legislation sponsored by State Sen. Frank C. Watson, R-Greenville.

Watson's House Bill 989, which is designed to prevent fraudulent use of credit cards, has been approved by both houses of the general assembly and now goes to the Senate.

"Many firms require customers to produce a credit card as a form of identification when they accept checks for goods or services," Watson said. "Some of these businesses then enter the account number on the check, thereby giving access to the account to anyone handling that check. Since checks pass through many hands in the course of business, fraud is very possible."

Watson's bill would prohibit businesses from entering a credit card number on a customer's check, though they could continue to ask to see a card for identification purposes. American Express card numbers could still be written on checks when members use their cards to guarantee payment, he said.

"Eight other states have laws similar to this to protect the privacy of credit accounts," Watson said. "Illinois credit card holders need and deserve this security as well."

Schools sharing class costs

The Granite City School District owes money to the Venice School District, but Venice owes the Madison School District.

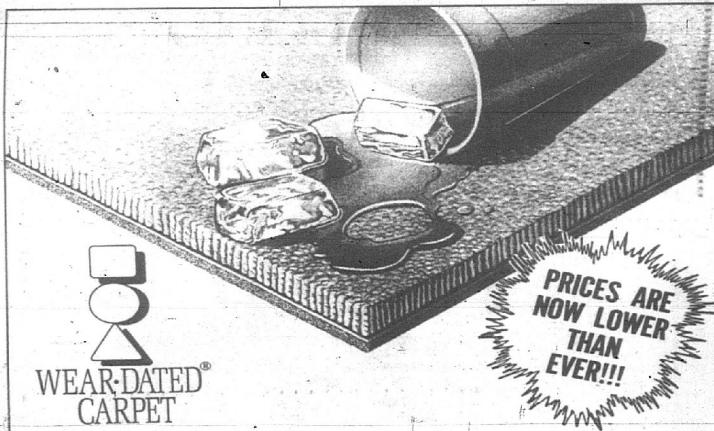

Interior Superintendent of Schools Robert Vickers informed the Venice Board of Education earlier this month that the financial transactions are not unusual and result from tuition fees in Madison County Special Education Region I student exchange programs.

Area school districts offer specific special education programs and share them to avoid duplication or unnecessary crowding in nearby districts.

Tuition costs in 1989-90 owed to Venice schools by Granite City include $31,320 for the learning disability program and $32,890 for trainable handicapped for a total of $64,720.

Venice owes Granite City $12,391 for the physically handicapped program and $12,877 for trainable classes for a total of $25,269.

The Venice School District owes Madison schools $1,913 for the tuition of children in the early-childhood program in 1989-90, Vickers said.

A 'real' paper wouldn't

"I don't see why my arrest has to be in your paper. A 'real' newspaper wouldn't print it."

A day rarely passes without someone calling, or coming in, with a request that the Press-Record keep a police item out of the newspaper. The answer is always the same: No police item has ever intentionally been held out of the paper.

Not for employees. Not for advertisers. Not for civic or religious leaders. Not for anyone.

We may be proud of that fact, but that doesn't mean we always feel good about it. After all, people really do have elderly parents, children who will be harassed at school and spouses who may lose their jobs. Yes, we believe it is possible for a person to be a victim of circumstances and, even worse, that innocent people sometimes get arrested.

There may be valid arguments that it would be better if a person's arrest did not run in the newspaper. But, as a newspaper, we are not a position to pass judgment — that is the job of the courts and the court's decisions are also printed.

Because we feel it is part of our role as a community newspaper, we have chosen to print police reports. The only way we, as a newspaper, can do that fairly is to print all of the police reports. The only modification to that rule deals with the severity of a crime — routine traffic tickets and other minor crimes are not reported by the Press-Record.

Because we are a community newspaper, we print birth announcements, birthday parties, school awards, graduations, military service announcements, engagements, weddings, divorces, anniversaries, promotions, retirements, obituaries and a host of other items that won't be found in a metropolitan daily newspaper.

We regularly cover the meetings of city governments, village governments, school boards, park boards and other taxing bodies — we don't just go when there is a "big story" that every newspaper will have.

Does that make the Press-Record less of a "real" newspaper?

On a resume it probably does. After all, these "little" things pale next to the intrigue of national and international politics.

But to the person involved, these "little" triumphs and tragedies are the most important thing in the world. And they are to us, too.

Quinn's bank plan good

State Treasurer Pat Quinn wants Illinois to invest its state funds in Illinois.

To do that, Quinn wants to deposit the funds in local banks so that it can be put to use in the local market. One problem, he said in interview at the Press-Record, is that mergers and bank systems have made truly local banks harder to find.

The move to bigger banks is not all bad, Quinn said, since bigger banks can offer more and better services. And, he said, the stiff competition between big banking groups has been good for the economy in a lot of ways.

But what has been lost, Quinn said, is the important community role played by the local banker.

When a young man or woman with a new idea approached the local banker, he or she was going to get a fair hearing.

Even if the idea was not professionally printed and bound, with four-color graphics plotting projected annual returns, the chances were good that the banker knew the person's parents, remembered the young person from high school sports or remembered the care the person bestowed on his or her first car.

And maybe, because of that personal knowledge about the person, the local banker would decide to take a chance and support the person's dream.

Quinn hopes that his program will give even the larger banking groups that willingness to listen to new ideas. Then, he said, based on knowledge of the community, the banks should be willing to make innovative investments.

Quinn's is not a state-aid program — investment decisions are left to the banking professionals — and it is not a call to invest in every hair-brained scheme that comes along. All Quinn is asking is that banks be willing to prove to the citizens of Illinois that state-deposited money is out working in the local community, rather than sitting in some east, or west, coast money market fund.

Quinn is happy with the way his office's negotiations have gone with Madison County banks, especially the First National Bank in Madison, and he hopes to have his program in place here soon.

We think Quinn is right that Illinois money should be invested in Illinois. We think Quinn is wise to keep politics out of it and leave the actual investment decisions to the banks. And like Quinn, we hope our area banks will soon decide it is in everyone's best interest to support his program.

DUI program makes sense

The following column is opinion from the Alton Telegraph. Victims of drunken drivers are offering a sort of shock therapy by sharing their stories with defendants convicted in Madison County courts of driving under the influence.

The new Victims Impact Program has a "dual purpose." It guarantees that people convicted of DUI are exposed to the human tragedy the offense can cause and it allows victims some emotional release from the pain and suffering for which they are seldom compensated.

For many years, victims of drunken drivers have complained that the law cares more for the rights of the accused than the rights of the victims — the family left without the love and support of a provider or a young person suddenly plunged into a lifetime of paralysis and pain.

The Victims Impact Program offers the victims a way to deal at least with the emotional torment if not the physical and financial traumas.

Officials who monitor the program say they have had little problem in finding DUI victims willing to volunteer to share their stories with offenders sentenced to attend special monthly sessions as a condition of probation.

As yet unmeasured in the new program is just what effect it may have on the offenders. The program is designed, after all, not as a means to humiliate, embarrass and exact revenge on the offenders, but to open their eyes to the damage they can cause. And perhaps that memory will prevent them from getting behind the wheel drunk yet one more time.

The preventative value of such a program may be difficult, perhaps even impossible, to measure. But we think it has substantial value as a therapeutic tool for victims who for too long have felt correctly or not, that their helplessness or compassion for offenders is the real value alone makes the program worth preserving if not, in fact, expanding to other types of offenses that ensnare innocent and unwilling victims.

Waste combustion not being accepted

The following column is submitted by Frank Boyne, District 8 member of the St. Clair County Board and a member of the county's environmental committee and subcommittee for solid waste. This is the third of four parts.

Let's pretend that you are a typical American. You are a responsible citizen in this community. You pay your taxes, participate in the PTA or civic organization, and perhaps attend a local church.

You care about the quality of life and well-being of your citizenry. You consider yourself an environmentalist, meaning that you support pro-environmental positions regarding the quality of air, water, land, and natural habitats. You read the local paper and watch the local and national evening news broadcasts. Assume also that your local government has been studying solid waste disposal alternatives that include incinerators, landfills and/or expanded landfills and incinerators. You have formed some opinions, perhaps strong ones, about how local governments should deal with this problem and are concerned that your local officials are on the wrong track.

You are convinced that they have overlooked the low-tech common-sense aspects to solid waste management that every responsible person can understand. It is obvious to you that Americans are the greatest waste generators in the world; maybe the most wasteful society in the world, in general terms. You realize the need for landfills, greater safeguards against leachate migration and subsequent ground water contamination.

However, recycling is an idea whose time has come, and you feel the government should not invest billions of dollars in long-range high-tech solutions until recycling is given a chance.

It just makes common sense that reusing something is better than throwing it away, and if we fully commit to recycling, perhaps the existing landfill will last longer. You figure out a way for the country to figure out a better way to dispose of solid waste.

You're almost convinced that if your local government makes the maximum commitment to recycling you won't need that "incinerator" proposed by the consultants, but more importantly, you know that the "incinerator" is built, recycling cannot be fully realized because recycling and incinerators are incompatible. Therefore, the underlying message you are conveying to your community and your local officials regarding solid waste disposal in the future is "Do we burn or do we recycle?"

You've also been to public hearings and listened to all kinds of data and rationale from officials and experts that recycling won't solve the problem because of markets and institutional barriers and things that you don't fully understand, but which nevertheless seem like things that people and government can solve instead of poisoning air, water, and land with toxic chemicals.

You may not understand all the technical details, but you clearly perceive the fundamental decisions to burn or recycle; high tech vs. low tech; expert vs. the common sense.

Municipal waste combustion has such a bad reputation because of the lack of public education regarding solid waste issues, but the idea will bring a solution to the U-boat problem in World War I. "Boil all of the water out of the Atlantic Ocean so you can see 'em."

How does the greater technical community understand the problems and solutions regarding municipal solid waste management and disposal educate the public on environmental issues, costs, responsibilities,ibilities, and free market forces that pertain to all solid waste management and disposal alternatives?

The typical citizen described above gets most of his information from the print and broadcast media, who are quick to admit that they are not in the business of public education. The media do not tell about the issues, they report the news.

This position may be democratically correct but local governments are frustrated in trying to compete with the editorial page.

Those opposing a local government initiative have the advantage of not being required to substantiate the validity of their comments, whereas government officials and consultants are often required to be able to substantiate all decisions, positions, and recommendations.

When the issue of initiative is technically sophisticated, expensive, undesirable (municipal waste combustion facilities are all three), the editorial page dilemma is particularly bad because of the newspaper's requirement for brevity.

Secondly, opposing a municipal waste combustion facility on the editorial page is free to use emotionally pungent language that preys on the reader's ignorance in matters and crystallizes negative images.

And finally, the local government, responsible for the collection and disposal of solid waste, conducts a public meeting to educate the citizens on the matter, but it can't attend and the press covers the event rather than the information presented.

Even if local government wisely video-records the presentation and distribution of the prime time people will be asleep, at work, or out of the house. And if government broadcasts in during prime time the show competes with everyone else's prime time broadcasts.

The educational problem is that most of the people don't want to be educated about burning stuff like what to do with garbage.

Next: The lessons to be learned.

Citizen's call alerted police

To the editor:

The Alliance Against Intoxicated Motorists (AAIM) wishes to thank the Granite City Police Department for their cooperation in making a DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol) arrest on May 29.

Police made the arrest following a call from a citizen reporting the suspected drunk driver.

The suspect had a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of 0.2 percent, which is double drunk.

At that BAC, a driver is 100 times more likely than a sober driver to have a crash.

The caller was paid $100 and given a certificate of appreciation by AAIM under our "Drunk-buster" program.

The program is in effect throughout Illinois to encourage citizen reports of suspected impaired drivers. The goal is to remove impaired drivers from the roads before they cause a tragedy.

By working together, citizens and police make the streets safer in Granite City and elsewhere.

PAUL FROELICH

Executive director, AAIM

More people need to give opinions

To the editor:

I am happy to see more people taking a stand and voicing their opinions. It is a step in taking action and proving we can make a difference. It shows we can solve the problems we, as a community, face and as a nation, face.

I hear many people speaking out against high taxes, and reasonably so. But what about the people who are the tax spenders? People who for one reason or another do not work and are utilized to feed the rent and utilities of those who do.

Most of these people are willing to work but with the alarming rate of unemployment, jobs are scarce.

The 1992 elections are still a long ways off. But isn't it time we start thinking about the solutions that politicians are avoiding, as one writer said in the Press-Record?

How many voters realize that many jobs in Madison County are created for political affiliates and friends and friends.

People who want to work and are competent, productive potential employees are not working because they don't have the pull. These are the people who daily pound the pavement looking to be a taxpayer and not a tax spender.

If our politicians could create jobs for family and friends, why not give everyone an opportunity to find employment? The State Department had the right idea in a hiring board.

If more citizens were given the chance to work, there would be more tax dollars, which would eliminate the need to raise taxes for the fortunate who do have secure incomes, as a community.

I think it would be a good idea for the Press-Record to poll the voters of our county to come up with their ideas. Possibly we can find a solution to the problems of poverty, unemployment and homelessness, as a community.

If these problems are solved on a small scale, as in Madison County, would that not make my suggestions on a national scale?

If enough people speak out on an issue, the politicians listen and act on it.

One person may think he or she cannot make a difference when, in fact, 300 people feel the same way but do not say anything until someone takes that first step.

Let us, as a community, as a nation, as citizens, start being a part of the solution instead of the problem.

We as a people, which our Constitution is founded for, can make a difference. We can start today. Let us speak out.

Tell your neighbor, tell your alderman, tell the Press Record your opinions and ideas! Someone will listen.

It's unconstitutional

To the editor:

I cannot understand why the Democrats in Congress are working so hard to pass a civil rights bill.

The bill has already been found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Even if it would pass, it would still be unconstitutional.

BARGAIN HUNTERS look over items for sale at a West Granite yard sale.

Bargains galore at yard sales

Buyers, sellers find sales fun, profitable

By Jim Haverstick
and Mickey Harris
Staff writers

Bargain little red wagon dolls, baby clothes, knickknacks, Cardinals baseball caps, hats, visors and T-shirts, planters and a tiny table and chair play set are just some of the great buys Jan Casson has picked up by the companion program.

Frequently she buys dolls. Her mother-in-law repairs and dresses them so Casson can give them to need families at Christmas.

She is extremely proud of a 75-cent doll that now dons a straw hat and crinoline dress.

"I think it's like it is worth $25," Casson said.

Jan Ferguson of St. Charles, Mo., another "hard-core" shopper, is particularly proud of finding a 1960s Claiborne purse at a sale for $8.

Ferguson, a manicurist, said she arranged her work schedule so that she could have Wednesdays off to do her shopping. She has been buying garage sales since she was a child going with her mother. The habit stuck with her.

"When you're a kid, you hate being dragged around to these things," she said.

Some are in it for the thrill of finding that bargain they can't pass up.

Others see garage sales as a means of making ends meet, finding necessities at bargain basement prices in an economically troubled time.

Garage sales season locally lasts about as long as the warm weather does, from April to September. Most sales are rising early to participate in what has become a popular and practical pastime.

Some are in it for the thrill of finding that bargain they can't pass up.

Others see garage sales as a means of making ends meet, finding necessities at bargain basement prices in an economically troubled time.

Garage sales are prime areas to find clothing, books, furniture, appliances, kitchen gadgets, toys, hobby cloths and myriad of other second-hand property ranging from the bizarre to the normal — at prices a fraction of the normal — at prices a fraction of what they might cost in retail stores.

Casson's favorite time to shop is Saturday morning, though occasionally she will venture out on her lunch hour for a sale, she said.

"I don't have any strategy or routine. I just hop in my car and drive around and look for signs," she said.

"I think it's because it gets me out for the morning, and we do it together," Larsen said. "It's a pretty cheap day out."

Some people see garage sales as a necessity. Garage sales have become a way to pay bills and a way to buy necessities on a limited budget.

"I have two cases in the last few weeks where both families have had garage sales of necessity, trying to come up with a little extra money to meet some bills," said Betty Witte, treasurer of Sts. Joachim and Anne Care Service in St. Charles, Mo.

In one of the cases, a man

buys an item for bingo prizes because I have to buy so many things," she said. "I can make a nice contribution and not spend much money."

Casson, the Granite City field coordinator for Belleville Area College's Programs and Services for Older Persons Senior Companion Program, often picks up items for bingo games, raffles, game and contest prizes held by the companion program.

Frequently she buys dolls. Her mother-in-law repairs and dresses them so Casson can give them to need families at Christmas.

"I think it's like it is worth $25," Casson said.

Jan Ferguson of St. Charles, Mo., another "hard-core" shopper, is particularly proud of finding a 1960s Claiborne purse at a sale for $8.

Ferguson, a manicurist, said she arranged her work schedule so that she could have Wednesdays off to do her shopping.

She has been buying garage sales since she was a child going with her mother. The habit stuck with her.

"When you're a kid, you hate being dragged around to these things," she said.

Some are in it for the thrill of finding that one thing that is such a bargain. You buy that black and white TV for $5, and it works and you're thrilled to have it. You feel like you're really getting a bargain. It just tickles you to no end."

Leslie Niebruegge and DeVonna Larsen of St. Charles, Mo., who have been garage sale shopping together for years, enjoy sales for another reason.

"I think it's because it gets me out for the morning, and we do it together," Larsen said. "It's a pretty cheap day out."

Some people see garage sales as a necessity. Garage sales have become a way to pay bills and a way to buy necessities on a limited budget.

"I have two cases in the last few weeks where both families have had garage sales of necessity, trying to come up with a little extra money to meet some bills," said Betty Witte, treasurer of Sts. Joachim and Anne Care Service in St. Charles, Mo.

In one of the cases, a man

SIGN OF THE TIMES: With garage sales increasing in popularity, signs like these are becoming more and more commonplace.

excited.

Ferguson said she flips through the classified section of the newspaper the night before and maps out her game plan before hitting the road.

Ferguson said the amateur garage sellers have to compete sometimes with professionals — antique dealers who show up earlier to sales to get the best buys.

Ferguson said she's seen some sales tactics at garage sales.

"They'll race from one garage sale to another. You'll see the same people at different sales. Some of them will try to beat others to the deal," she said.

"I have really seen some women fighting over stuff. I'm thinking, 'It's not quite worth it.'

But nothing ever brought home from a garage sale. It is called "Ralphie."

In the end, however, the seven-week-old puppy wound up costing Neibruegge $400 in veterinarian bills due to a case of the mange. Her husband has since forbidden her from bringing home "live" items.

Casson has never done anything quite so drastic as bringing home a pet, but once again, she had to sign on the back of her car that read " Beware, this can break for all garage sales."

Residents to remove signs as soon as the sale is finished.

• Belleville requires residents to buy a $1 garage sale permit the week of the sale. Individuals are allowed only three garage sales a year.

• Minocqua does not have restrictions either, but also asks that signs be removed as soon as sale is finished.

• Collinsville requires residents to obtain a garage sale permit at least one day in advance of the sale. Sales may last up to three days and individuals are allowed no more than three sales per year.

• Fallon requires no license, no registration and has no restrictions on sales whatsoever. However, the city does require

Plan ahead for successful sale

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

If you're planning a garage sale in the near future, some advance planning will help.

Wanting to get rid of a garage full of good junk is not all that it takes to make a garage sale a success. There are a few things you should know to find out what the city regulations are for garage sales.

Experts also say that having a garage sale requires good planning. The following is a checklist for planning sales:

- Gather, sort and set aside sale items.
- Arrange for newspaper ad.

two weeks ahead of sale.

• Obtain permission from merchants and neighbors to display sale signs or notices.

• Clean garage.

• Set up tables.

• Price items.

• Display sale items.

• Obtain change from bank.

• Post signs the day of the sale.

Granite City requires residents to purchase a $2 permit the week of the sale. The sale can last up to three days and individuals are allowed no more than three sales per year.

• Granite City requires residents such as utility poles. Violators will be ticketed for defacing public property for hanging garage sale signs in Granite City.

Other cities have adopted similar requirements.

• Fairmount Heights requires residents to register their garage sales with the Department of Land Use and Development 10 days in advance of the sale. There is no charge. Garage sales may last up to three days and individuals are allowed no more than three sales per year.

• Fallon requires no license, no registration and has no restrictions on sales whatsoever.

However, the city does require residents to remove signs as soon as the sale is finished.

• Belleville requires residents to buy a $1 garage sale permit the week of the sale. Individuals are allowed only three garage sales a year.

• Minocqua does not have restrictions either, but also asks that signs be removed as soon as sale is finished.

• Collinsville requires residents to obtain a garage sale permit at least one day in advance of the sale. Sales may last up to three days, but individuals are allowed only three garage sales each year.

• Fallon requires no license, no registration and has no restrictions on sales whatsoever. However, the city does require residents to remove signs as soon as the sale is finished.

Animal agencies warn of sale to research labs

By Ron Sammons
Staff writer

An incident that took place in O'Fallon several weeks ago has local animal agencies warning area residents who place "free to a good home" ads.

Joan Weible of O'Fallon is heartbroken over the loss of her pet cat, which she gave away June 4 to a man who claimed he wanted the pet for his 16-year-old daughter.

She believes her cat was sold to a research lab, she said. "He sounded very smooth and believable, and he seemed genuinely interested," she said.

According to Weible, the man, who called himself "Terry Wayne," called around 2 p.m. June 4 to inquire about her cat, which she was trying to give away.

"My son answered the phone that day, and I almost told him to tell the person that the cat already had a new home. I was aggravated that no one was calling because it was the last day of the ad."

The man told her that it would be several hours before he could come and see the cat, so she said, "I'll show up and he was by himself; his daughter wasn't with him. When I asked him about it, he replied, 'Well if I did bring my daughter' and she liked it and I didn't, then she could forget it.' I thought that was a little strange," Weible said.

After playing with the pet and talking in the foyer for awhile, Weible said, "The man now he planned to take the cat back with him, she said.

"He told me he had a carrier that he had borrowed from his sister, who had a poodle. Then he remarked on how that carrier probably smelled like the dog," she said. "He came in a truck, and I didn't want the cat to have to sit in the back."

Following further conversation, in which Weible gave him information about the cat, the man left his name, address and telephone number, she said. "I thought I'd call in a couple days and see how the cat was doing, and I just wanted to get his name and number so I could call. He was not willing to give them to me," she said.

"I also thought it was strange that he didn't tell me where he was coming from, and I did more thinking than he did," Weible said.

Around 10 a.m. the next day, she decided to call to find out how the cat was doing, she said. "An elderly lady answered the phone and she said she had heard of him, and that she didn't want any pets," Weible said. "At 10 a.m. I knew something was wrong, and bells began to ring." Weible then called her husband, off work, and he had the address and number cross-referenced, but found that the address didn't exist, and there was no Wayne at that phone number, she said.

"I don't understand why he went through all of the trouble, he seemed so believable," she said.

Since that time, Weible has been placing ads to warn other pet owners.

These types of occurrences are nothing new to the community, VanKavage said. "It's been around for awhile, but we're just starting to see more of it. It's big money now," she said.

Mary Helton of Protect Our Pets Inc. agrees. "The number of pets taken is going up every year," she said. "We estimate about a million were taken last year, and that will increase by about 10 percent this year. Each laboratory is using more animals each year, and the majority of the pets taken go to research."

"Breeders," (those who get the pets) collect the animals and take them to a pet auction site, she said. "Sometimes they will sell the pets directly to the dealer, who in turn sells them to the research facility. That dealer has a license to buy or sell 'random source' pets," Helton said.

Most pets taken in Illinois are sold in Missouri, she said.

For those trying to give away their pets, Weible has some advice. "First ask some price. This takes the profit out of it. Twenty-five dollars is reasonable for a neutered or spayed pet, and ask $60 to $70 for a purchased. Anyone that is interested in purchasing a pet will be willing to pay a price," she said.

"Second, insist on two forms of identification. If you give your name, the person won't want to show you any ID, tell them you're not comfortable with it."

Free-to-good-home, pets back up 50 percent of the research society, Helton said. "Protect Our Pets" is investigating and researching the black market for domestic pets, she said.

On July 28, the humane society will hold a pet tattooing service, VanKavage said.

"A number is tattooed on the pet, and it doesn't hurt the animal. Usually your social security number is stamped on them, and they are then registered with the National Dog Registry," she said.

"If a pet with the tattoo shows up in a lab, it cannot be worked on. With the help of the registry, the owner must return the pet to the owner," she said.

WEED FIRE: Long Lake firefighter Kelly Rogers extinguishes a blaze along the railroad tracks near Mockingbird Lane Friday just before noon. Long Lake and Granite City fire departments responded to a number of spot fires along the tracks, in a 1.5 mile area between Mockingbird Lane and Granite City Steel, at about 11:40 a.m. Capt. Bob Dawes of the GCFD said the fires were ignited from an unknown source, possibly something thrown from a train. Firefighters fought the spot fires for a few minutes, then moved on to another.

Bob Danner of the LLLFD said a second call was received by his department at about 1:15 p.m. He said at least five spot fires, also along railroad tracks, near the intersection of Illinois 162 and Interstate 255 kept his department busy for two more hours.

Local man shares expertise at BAC

Joe Bunetic, 74, of Fairview Heights has learned what some might call the "secrets" to success.

Bunetic balances work and play. He teaches young people skills he uses in the market and plays in a band that entertains senior citizens as a member of Belleville Area College's Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Bunetic, a machine shop instructor at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center (VLTC) in Venice, said it is important for his students to have opportunities so they can enjoy life too.

"In addition to machinist work my students get training in everyday life. They learn about responsibility, dependability, and about being punctual," said Bunetic.

Eight hundred to 1,000 students attend VLTC each year.

In the 15 years that Bunetic has been teaching, he's had only a handful of students that didn't do well in the program.

"The students put their minds to business and work hard," said Bunetic. "We have people from our program that work in most big companies in the St. Louis area."

Bunetic worked as a machinist for the railroad and at several local shops, and was an instructor for Manpower Development Training in Alorton before he retired in 1973. After eight years of retirement he went back to

Dog slaying under investigation

GRANITE CITY — A dog shot by a hunting arrow at 10:25 p.m. Saturday died approximately one hour later.

According to police, a Huskie-type dog was paroled from one of the city's animal control facilities by a licensed hunting arrow when it was shot in the 2900 block of East 23rd Street June 22. The reporting officer said he found the dog wounded and laying in the middle of the street.

Police Chief Don Knight said while no charges had yet been filed in the case, an investigation is continuing.

teaching when a position opened up at VLTC. He now teaches five days each week for nine months a year.

When he's not teaching he plays the mandolin in a kitchen band at Belleville Area College's Retired Senior Volunteer Program. The band performs in the area for various nursing homes, civic organizations, clubs and at parades.

Bunetic and his wife, Agnes, are active in church activities but Joe said he thoroughly enjoys teaching machine shop at VLTC.

"It really makes you feel good when you see your students from 10 to 15 years ago and hear how they're doing," said Bunetic. "Many are working in fields other than machinist work, but they learned about being responsible and dependable at VLTC."

Lawyer's acquittal dismays prosecutor

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

Assistant St. Clair County State's Attorney Jim Cleary said Monday he was "surprised" and "very dismayed" that Belleville attorney Paul Stormont was acquitted of allegedly telling a client to lie under oath.

The acquittal was issued Thursday by Madison County Chief Circuit Judge Paul Riley, who was specially appointed to hear the case.

Despite the acquittal, Stormont still faces two other charges. The Illinois Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission conducted hearings Thursday and Friday on one of those charges.

Judge O'Malley of the ARDC said the matter was taken under advisement and a decision will be rendered within 30 days.

In addition, State's Attorney Robert Haida said Friday that his office will consider what will do with a separate charge of subordination of perjury against Stormont.

The charge was brought up during the end of Stormont's trial but Riley ordered the charge to be severed from the original case.

"We'll have to assess the situation and determine how we will proceed," Haida said.

A preliminary hearing on the matter was continued to Friday.

Stormont was charged with advising a client to lie under oath in a divorce case. The conversation was captured by a tape recorder left on during a recess in the court proceedings.

Riley said his decision for acquittal was based on a lack of evidence provided by the state's attorney's office in the case.

"There was an absolute demonstration of a lack of evidence," he told the Journal Monday. "No witness relative to any portion to the substantive charge was called by the state."

Stormont was charged in October with perjury and subordination of perjury after he allegedly told a client to lie during a divorce proceeding in March 1988. The conversation was recorded on tape during a court recess.

Riley said that information was not enough to convict. Stormont was charged in October with perjury and subordination of perjury after he allegedly told a client to lie during a divorce proceeding in March 1988. The conversation was recorded on tape during a court recess.

"The burden of proof belongs to the party sponsoring the charge and they didn't come close to making it," he said. "So I thought he was 'very pleased' by the decision but refused to make additional comments, saying it would be 'improper.'

Debra Granger, Stormont's client in the divorce case, also has a perjury charge pending against her.

As a result, Cleary was "shocked" that Riley would suggest calling Granger to testify again. She said:

"Granger had been told by her attorney not to testify against Stormont because that testimony could later be used in the criminal case against her," Cleary said.

"We try to learn from judges, but we're shocked that Judge Riley would even suggest calling a co-defendant as a witness," Cleary said.

"Any first year law student would wonder at such a suggestion."

Cleary said he did not believe that Riley ever considered the key piece of evidence—the taped conversation and the transcript of that conversation—before he ruled in the case.

"I heard the tape and the transcript were not good evidence, then it would have seemed to have been incumbent upon the judge to offer some opinion about why they would have not have been good evidence."

"It's difficult to take seriously an opinion and order that seemingly ignores most of the evidence in the case," Cleary said.

State's Attorney Robert Haida also said he was "obviously very disappointed" with the ruling and strongly disagreed with the decision.

Cleary said he also was concerned that the public perception of the case will be that Stormont was acquitted "because he was connected to the system."

However, he said he wants to assure the public that the state's attorney office will continue to pursue cases against any individual where sufficient evidence to charge and prosecute the case exist.

Jesse Elizabeth Mitchell

Mitchell

Jesse Elizabeth (Jenkel) Mitchell, 67, of Granite City, formerly of Pinckneyville. She was a mainstay for the hundreds of East European workers who came to Madison to work at American Can and Foundry, his store. Unfortunately, the store was completely destroyed by a fire soon after their return.

Almost immediately, Leo Scherer reopened the store in a basement, and the store was completely destroyed by a fire soon after their return.

In the 1950s, while Avery Scherer was working as a civil servant, Leo Scherer started thinking about selling the store.

Avery Scherer said that, if Leo was serious, he would like to buy the store and run it for him.

Leo Scherer liked the idea and the two brothers agreed to become partners. Soon joined by brother Stanley, the three brothers built and expanded the store to its present form.

In the 1960s, Stanleay died suddenly. At the time he was in the midst of making plans for a gardening store and Leo took over the idea. He opened the Garden Shop in 1966, and Avery Scherer continued to operate a bank with his son, Leo, and his wife, Shirley, until his death.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people fall behind on their mortgage payments and their car payments due to financial difficulties. Frequently individuals in this situation consider filing a Chapter 7 straight bankruptcy or a Chapter 13 wage earner plan. The question often arises as to which of these alternatives would be more favorable for people in these circumstances. The answer to this question frequently depends upon whether the debtors wish to keep their house and car and whether they wish to keep the back payments current immediately.

Let's assume that a man and wife are three months behind on their mortgage payments and two months delinquent on their car loan. The bank is threatening to foreclose on the house and the creditor under a repossession notice, the husband is drawing unemployment, and the wife is making approximately $200 per week. The couple has two children, and the prospects of the man obtaining work in the near future are not good.

Is bankruptcy a viable alternative for these people, and if so, would a Chapter 7 or Chapter 13 better serve their needs? Either a straight bankruptcy or a wage earner plan would stop the creditors from harassing these people. In addition, either alternative would initially stop all attempts to foreclose on the mortgage and also preclude the creditor from possessing the car. Therefore, bankruptcy could provide welcome debt relief for this beleaguered couple.

If the couple filed a Chapter 7 straight bankruptcy, they would probably have to come up with the back payments immediately to keep the house and car if they wished to retain possession of them. If they were willing to abandon the house and car, they could surrender these assets and wipe out the total amount of the debt.

If the couple wished to keep the house and car, a Chapter 13 wage earner plan would allow them to pay the back payments over a three to five year period of time. This alternative would require the family coming up with all of the back payments immediately in order to keep these assets.

It is important to note that often a debtor who files bankruptcy will be unable to obtain financing again at any time. Therefore, the individual may want to consider keeping his house and car since he might not be able to obtain financing to buy another home or automobile.

1 Corinthians 3:11 . . . "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

We can be very thankful to God that He has made Christ the foundation of our faith. There is none other name given under Heaven, whereby men must be saved, but the name of Jesus Christ. Therefore, if any man, the truth, and the life, and no man can come to the Father but by me."

There has been and will continue to be many of God. Their labors for God have changed the world. We honor them, acknowledge them, build monuments to them, etc. It would be a proper however, let us not forget that all our heroes of faith have had the same foundation, Jesus Christ. All great and fallen heroes have given their lives to their Savior and Lord.

Paul the Apostle said, "We preach Christ crucified." Many Christians the foundation of your life. Today . . .

New volleyball coach Gagich prepares with summer clinics

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Cindy Gagich isn't just sitting around all summer waiting for the fall season to begin.

Gagich, hired May 14 as the new head volleyball coach at Granite City High School, is getting a long look at the present and future talent she will have to work with. She is conducting a clinic this week at Memorial Gymnasium for high school students, then she will run a junior high clinic July 15-19.

"We've got kids out this week and I'm really pleased with that," said Gagich. "Anytime you can get anywhere from 18 kids or more out, that's a good camp."

Gagich, the former Cindy Mueller, is from Freeburg and played for the Midgets' 1979 state Class A volleyball champions.

She graduated from Freeburg High School in 1980 and got a bachelor's degree from SIU-Carbondale. She played club-level volleyball in college.

Gagich, a retired Sgt. Mike Gagich of the Granite City Police Department and they have a 1-year-old son, Nathan. She taught and was an assistant volleyball coach at Freeburg High School for the past five years.

"Since I had Nathan I was really wanting to get a job here in the district," she said. "I heard about the opening in January and made a few calls. I was fortunate that a teaching position opened up."

Cindy Gagich
Freeburg High graduate

Gagich will teach business at the high school in addition to her coaching duties. She replaces Natalie Buster as the head volleyball coach. Buster coached the program two years.

"I'm enthused with Cindy's enthusiasm," said athletic director Greg Patton. "It wouldn't be right to say Natalie didn't do a good job. But she had some health problems and she never really was able to perform as well as she wanted to."

Gagich is running the camp this week with her sister, Julie Paska, a former All-American at Illinois State and now an assistant coach there. Paska played professionally with the Chicago Breeze. Jan Madlock, currently playing at ISU, is also helping with the camp.

"We have some ability and the girls are really willing to learn," Gagich said. "There are some good athletes here and a lot of tall girls, and size sure does help."

"We have to work on the team concept. A lot of girls want the glory of getting the big spike, but there's a lot involved in getting someone set up to do that," she said.

The junior high camp next month should help implant that idea at a young age.

"The Belleville schools are so successful because most of them are really getting in junior high or even as early as fifth grade," Gagich said. "There should be enough girls here that we can really keep the program going."

Patton agrees.

"In the fall, you're talking about volleyball, tennis and cross country for the girls, he said. "People across the country don't take up all the many of the girls, so there's no reason why we can't get some pretty good numbers out for volleyball. Cindy's going about it the right way."

Patton said an assistant volleyball coach will be assigned at the next school board meeting.

Gagich is running the camp this week with her sister, Julie Paska, a former All-American at

GC Royals take second place in Belleville tourney

The Granite City Royals took second place in the Belleville Softball Tournament last weekend.

The Royals won three of four games and general manager Tom Zolna and coaches Terry Harris and Sonny Puluse received a trophy from tournament director Erick Johansen.

Mia Puluse of Granite City was the winning pitcher in the first game, a 14-4 decision over the O'Fallon Roadrunners. Donna Ridgway was the losing pitcher in the next game as the Royals were edged 7-5 by the Belleville Royals. Puluse again took the mound in the team's 10-4 win before Kara Harris of Collinsville beat the Pinckneyville Prides 5-4 in the final game.

The Royals, who played in Hartford on Wednesday, are 2-2 in league play.

Blues alumni team at NSRF Saturday

The Granite City Softball Association Officials will take on the Blues Alumni team in a benefit softball game Saturday.

The game will be played at the National Steel Recreation Facility at 23rd Street and Nameoki Road. Game time is 6:30 p.m. Admission is $5 and donations will be accepted as a contribution for cancer research in the memory of Dan Kelly, the long-time voice of the Blues.

For more information, call John Harrison at 451-3460.

ALL-STAR LINEUP: Byron Edington, 10, of Granite City (bottom left) was among more than 50 youngsters who attended the 1991 Coca-Cola Classic/Wayne Gretzky Hockey Camp on June 24-25 in Richmond Hill, Ont. Also attending the camp was Tommy Nolte, 8, of St. Louis (right).

Triplets slip by Wood River 3-2; Belleville tonight

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The stage is set for a dandy tonight at Varsity Field.

The North Division Triplets might have been looking forward to a meeting with the best from the South, but Post 113 was a little too much. But Post 113 managed to scrape together enough in the final two innings to squeak past Wood River 3-2 in a District 22 game Wednesday.

"You can say all you want about me not thinking about anything else," said manager Ralph Burnett. "But the players still have to go out and do it. We played pretty badly for most of the game, but the work of a good team to pull it out."

The win was Post 113's 10th in a row and gives them an 11-1 record heading into what should be a very interesting weekend. Belleville (13-1) plays District play... and tonight's 7:30 game could very well be a preview of the best-of-three District 22 championship next month.

After that, the Triplets travel to Evansville, Ind., to play two games Saturday (5:30 and 8 p.m.) against Evansville Post 265 in the only non-league games on the schedule. Barring any losses later in the week, Evansville could enter those games undefeated for the summer.

One fan who congratulated Burnett after Wednesday's game told him his team would have to play very well to beat Belleville. "Boy, is that ever an understatement," said Burnett. "I'd like to see them have to play better than they did Wednesday. Wood River scored tainted runs in each of the first two innings against Chris Hill and Post 113 didn't get a hit until Jeffery Lewis singled off the fourth inning. Then Bill Van Buskirk singled to lead off the fifth and scored on Brian Harshman's two-out single to left.

Dan Paska (10) followed out Saturday's game in East St. Louis with an injury, doubled to lead off the sixth and scored the tying run when left fielder Jeff Kinrade misplayed Erik Lewis' single. Lewis ended up on second, moved third on Drake Marshall's bunt and scored the winning run on Rich Schardan's sacrifice fly right.

Schardan then made himself a welcome relief. Hill in the fifth and allowed only one hit in 2½ innings to improve to 3-0 on the summer.

"Richie's almost back to where he was (before his knee injury)," said Burnett.

Errors help Junior Triplets to 5-3 win over Belleville

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Belleville lapsed into what manager Mike Bader called a "defensive coma" and Chad Dooley was a formidable anesthetist for the Belvidere offense yesterday.

The Junior Triplets improved to 9-3 in league play (10-4 overall) with a 5-3 win at Varsity Field as Belleville (6-5) committed three errors in the first run first inning. Tri-City had only two hits after that and was out 7-5. Ray Schott was the tough-luck loser for Belleville while Dooley improved to 3-1 on the summer.

"With the number of games we have coming up, we'll be a little short of pitching," said Junior Triplet manager Greg Patton. "We've gotten some strong starts lately. Hopefully, our pitching will hold up."

Tuesday's game was the first in a stretch of eight games in eight nights. Tri-City played in Bethalto on Wednesday, is off tonight, then plays six games in five days, including a Friday double-header at home against Edwardsville.

In Dooley's last outing, his defense deserted him as Tri-City committed and unbelievable 10 errors in a 13-3 loss to O'Fallon. This time, defense held its own and some tough situations. Catcher Jeff Luffman gunned down two potential base-stealers. "Jeff's mechanics and concentration have increased tenfold," said Patton. "Now you go for 2 throws guys on in Legion games, you can't expect any more."

Bethalto's defense was quite good.

Indeed, Schardan almost had a four-run win in the bag since he was leading Collinsville 4-0 last week when the game was suspended in the fifth inning because of darkness. That game will be completed July 13.

"I think really we is the best team I've had," said Burnett. "We're going to have to execute to score some runs until we get some guys hot. And that's what we did tonight. Richie got the bunt down and Richie got the fly ball. We made the winning run for ourselves."

Wood River scored in the first on a two-out double by Danny Nolan to score Mark Burris. Van Buskirk made a diving attempt on the ball.

"It was a great effort by Billy, and he still could have caught the ball," said Burnett. "But he had the glove turned the wrong way. I can't blame the effort, though."

Hill made a shocking throwing error to let both in the second on an easy play. He had plenty of time to retire Kincade, but threw the ball past Mike Nordstrom at first base for a two-base error. Kincade executed a double steal and scored on it paid off when Mike Redman's infield single drove in the run.

Center fielder Ryan Reeves nailed Kincade in the fourth after Kincade had stolen second. The throw sailed into the outfield, but Kincade was a dead duck at third base on Reeves' perfect throw.

Wood River put two men on in the seventh, but Schardan got Fischer on a 4-3 double play.

"Chris made the one error tonight, but this team just doesn't beat itself anymore," said Burnett. "We skinned him with one we didn't deserve tonight. I don't want to put down Wood River. They probably deserved to win, but we played down to their level a little. We hadn't played in a few days. Practice is great, but it's nothing like playing a game."

Marshall will pitch tonight against Belleville, which features several of his former high school teammates.

"We decided on that as soon as we saw the schedule," said Burnett. "This is the one Drake wants, and he's about as competitive as they come."

The Triplets leave for Evansville on Friday and will eat at a restaurant owned by New York Yankee superstar Don Mattingly, an Evansville native.

"I've been there before, and the place is just a baseball museum," said Burnett.

Then it will be two games against the same Evansville team who rolled up Granite City last summer with a 27-2 record. The Triplets nailed them 10-4.

"It might be a little tougher at their place," said Burnett. "But we'll handle it anyway and Schardan ready to pitch. They play in a minor league park, so it should be nice."

After that, the Triplets will take nine days off before resuming District 22 play July 9 in Wood River.

ED MITCHELL of Granite City won a unanimous decision over No. 1 world contender William Knoor of New Orleans in a super light heavyweight kickboxing match at the Clarion Hotel in St. Louis on June 11. Mitchell is now the No. 1 world contender. He is looking for a title shot in late summer.

RICH WILSON finished his baseball career at Illinois College this year by batting .301 with three home runs and eight RBIs. Wilson led the Blueboys (8-11) with seven doubles. He was also 2-1 with a 5.60 ERA as pitcher. Wilson is a 1987 graduate of Granite City High School.

the opposite. Jason Maxfield's hit was dropped for a base error and the first. Jeff Ridenour walked and Bill Hermon got a hit-and-run single to score Maxfield. Luffman's sacrifice fly and Les Nunes' single scored the fourth run on an errant throw by catcher Matt Bader after he had advanced to third on a single by Dooley and a single by Hermon.

"We fell asleep in the first inning," said Mike Bader. "They probably should have only had one (run)."

"We're at our best when we can play base and make things happen," said Patton.

Dooley breezed through the first 10 batters. But two singles and an error by third baseman Brian Kohler put the Indians in command. Hermon had a run in the fourth. Tri-City came right back in the bottom half on a hit by Dooley, a sacrifice by Kohler and Ben Hicks' RBI single.

We've been specific when we score," said Patton. "We usually have one or two big innings and that's it. We go the runs when we needed them."

Belleville got two in the sixth, but Luffman cut into his lead by hitting a Van Cais trying to steal second.

NOTES: Hawks allowed one earned run in beating Breeze 5-2 on Sunday. The Junior Triplets scored four in the seventh to come back for the win. Luffman had a triple, a single and two RBIs.

Granite City Press-Record, Thursday, June 27, 1991—5B

Single parent needs to plan for the future

Dear Mr. Campbell: I am a single parent with three children—2, 12 and 17 years old. The 17-year-old wants to be a doctor and is doing very well in school. I'm working two jobs. My husband, who recently died from cancer, has left me $150,000 in life insurance, although I haven't received it yet. I bought this home in July '89 for $76,500 for 30 years at 10 percent fixed. I only paid about 5 percent down on an FHA loan which was required because I don't have any relatives here and only a few friends. My friends tell me that I should pay off the house and take the $74,500 or so remaining and keep it in my name. My house payments are $763 a month. I am very confused—should I invest or pay off the house?

We lost one house in Texas about five years ago because of the recession. We just gave the keys back to the mortgage company when we moved here. I am so scared about what would happen if I pay off this house and can't sell it.

Answer: Your worry would be perfectly understandable even without the still-too-recent loss that you had in Texas.

Yes, you've got to handle that insurance money very carefully. You haven't told me much about your income level, in addition to the two jobs you are holding down. I assume that you are receiving something in Social Security death benefits. Still, a monthly mortgage payment of $763 when you've got three youngsters to raise sounds like a steep price to pay. Your friends are well-intentioned in suggesting a complete payoff of your mortgage, but I think they're going too far. A free and clear mortgage is a comforting thing to have, but, in your case, it's secondary.

I'd be inclined to split the difference—don't pay the whole thing off, but pay it down to say, $40,000 (using about $34,000 of your insurance settlement to do so) and refinance the balance over 30 years. That would drop your monthly payment for principal and interest to a more reasonable level ($600-$650 at 10 percent, same 10 percent interest rate), give you a comfortable equity in the home and still leave you with about $116,000 in insurance money for investment.

No, forget, too, what your friends say about keeping the money in the bank. What you need is a well-rounded financial plan that will incorporate, naturally, some bank CDs but will also be spread over other types of investments affording you some inflation protection, safety of principal, and a regular income that you can count on.

Check the local financial planners carefully, making sure that you pick one who holds credentials such as CFP—Certified Financial Planner in the field (for instance, he is a member of the Institute of Certified Financial Planners or the International Association for Financial Planning) and get references.

Dear Mr. Campbell: We own a town home here that has declined in value over the past seven years approximately $10,000. Have you ever heard of a conventional mortgage company taking a short payoff (that is, the current market value)? Would a longer term mortgage eliminate the short payoff? Is there anything else we can do to move out of the town house besides coming up with $10,000 or renting it out? We don't want to do either.

L.K. Answer: It really boils down to how hungry this mortgage lender really is. If you have already contacted the lender and offered to sweeten the pot—giving back the town house with a deed in lieu of foreclosure—the lender may not be surprised to find that you do, indeed, have the $10,000 required to do so. They may find this more receptive than you think. Nobody likes to take a loss and taking this town house back with a sweetener that eliminates that loss (at least for the time being) could be very attractive to them.

Dear Mr. Campbell: My 81-year-old widowed mother recently sold some farm acreage for something over $100,000. Her tax account (with whom she had dealt for many years) says that because of capital gains, the Internal Revenue Service has a claim for about $30,000-plus. In this a situation where 5-year averaging would be possible?

G.S. Answer: I'm afraid that your mother is going to have a big tax bill here. Averaging is out the window now, except in computing the conversion of some retirement-oriented investments. The only option, otherwise, would be for her to sell the land as an installment sale and parcel out the tax settlement over five or 10 years. But, at age 81, is this really worth it?

SS changes rules on child disability

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

Q. My child was turned down for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) disability benefits a few years ago because our income was too high. I hear there are new rules for evaluating SSI cases for children. Under these new rules, will my child be able to collect benefits?

A. Those new regulations changed the way Social Security determines if a child is disabled. (It's easier now for a child to meet the SSI definition of disability.) The new rules don't affect SSI income and resource limits.

However, I suggest you check to make sure your child's income is still too high for your child to get SSI. SSI payments increase each year with the cost of living. So the income limits go up each year, too, and it's possible that your family's income may now be below the limit. Call 1-800-772-1213 or visit your local Social Security office.

Q. How long does Social Security pay benefits to a person with a disability?

A. Social Security disability benefits last as long as the disability lasts. They don't end after a certain time limit.

All Social Security disability cases are reviewed periodically. Your medical records will be updated and checked to see if you have improved. Should the reviewer find that you are again able to work, your benefits will stop. Benefits will continue if your condition is still disabling according to Social Security's definition.

Your disability case must be reviewed at least every seven years.

Q. I'll be retiring and starting on Social Security next month at age 63. When will I be able to get Medicare benefits?

A. Medicare starts at age 65. The only exception to this rule are people who draw Social Security disability benefits or who have kidney disease requiring dialysis or a transplant.

You'll have to make other provisions for paying for your health care until age 65. Consider continuing your employer's coverage or enrolling in another health care plan until your Medicare plan takes effect. Or plan ahead by saving those expenses from your pocket.

You won't have to do anything to start your Medicare coverage. Your application for Social Security was also an application for Medicare. So shortly before your 65th birthday you'll automatically receive a Medicare card in the mail.

Advice for home buyers

Before you sign on the dotted line...

You've found the home that meets all your dreams and desires — at least the important ones — and you're ready to make an offer. So, what's next?

"It's at this point that you sit down with the real estate agent who showed you the property and prepare a sales contract," says Barbara J. Wyatt, president of the Granite City Board of Realtors.

"A sales contract is the formal presentation of your bid to the seller and contains all the provisions of the sale, including the date when the bedroom drapes are part of the deal."

"The agent will probably begin with a standard contract that contains more provisions than most buyers and sellers need, and then tailor it to address your specific situation," Wyatt said. "Ask to see a blank contract before you begin viewing properties that you can leisurely familiarize with each point you have outlined. This process continues until both parties are in full agreement. Remember, until an agreement on every point is reached details can be overlooked."

When the time comes to fill out the contract, the real estate agent will go over each provision with you, deleting parts of the contract that are not applicable and adding provisions that are major provisions included in the sales contract include agreed upon sales price, amount of initial earnest deposit and terms for payment of the remainder, amount of down payment, a provision allowing the buyer to withdraw from the sale if specified mortgage terms cannot be met, a provision for holding taxes, the date of the closing of the sale, and the date when the property may be occupied.

This list is far from all-encompassing. All aspects of the terms of the sale and financing are included in the contract.

Once the contract is signed, the agent will deliver it to the listing agent or the sellers who then have the right to negotiate each point you have outlined. This process continues until both parties are in full agreement. Remember, until an agreement on every point is reached between the buyer and the seller, nothing irreversible has happened," Wyatt said.

Upon agreement and signature of the contract and receipt of the buyer's earnest deposit, the parties are legally obligated to the terms of the sales agreement. Commonly, the agreement outlines that the contract is pending based upon legal review and a professional property inspection for the buyer. Typically, the buyer has five working days in which to accomplish these matters, although like all provisions, these, too are negotiable.

The Granite City Board of Realtors recommends hiring an attorney to review the contract and handle the closing. "No matter how straightforward your sales contract may seem, unanticipated complications can cause heartache at the last minute — complications a lawyer may have been able to foresee and avert," said Wyatt.

The Granite City Board of Realtors is one of more than 1,800 boards of Realtors nationwide that comprise the National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association.

Did Gulf War help farmers?

The relative shortness of the Persian Gulf War saved untold numbers of American lives, it's believed. And it may have saved lots of American farmers' bank accounts, says an agriculture economist at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Early-year production of crude oil at $30-a-barrel oil prices had cut into farmers' profits by some 10 to 15 percent, said Jeffrey R. Beaulieu.

Then, when oil reached $40-a-barrel, we believed profits would be cut by as much as 25 percent," he said.

However, because the situation in the Middle East "hadn't happened and ended so fast," said Beaulieu.

Operation Desert Storm's back-to-back blasts that did revise the economic picture in agriculture, according to Beaulieu, include changes in grain exports like rice. Iraq had been a major U.S. oil customer during the previous six years before the conflict, buying 225,000 to 500,000 tons a year. But Brazil stepped in and took up the slack after the United Nations slapped sanctions on Iraq.

Of the $40 billion in agriculture exports the United States rang up in 1989, the Middle East accounted for about $500 million.

SIUE contract awaits OK

A few signatures are all that is needed to conclude two years of contract negotiations at SIUE and give faculty members a three-year contract.

The 51 members of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Professional Staff Association, have ratified a tentative three-year contract, retroactive to July 1.

The apparent settlement will end continuing negotiations between the two sides since the association was created.

The final version is still awaiting the signatures of Chancellor Lawrence Pettit and President Carl L. Johnson.

University officials said they did not know when the contract would be signed, but said there should be no problems.

"The membership is pleased with the contract," chapter leader Hilde Duebert said.

The two sides have been negotiating a contract since the association was created in 1989.

The association covers counselors, child-care workers, librarians and other professional staff members at the Edwardsville and East St. Louis campuses.

Talks reached an impasse in late April.

IP board names Haab chairman

DECATUR.—The Illinois Power Board of Directors has announced the election of Larry D. Haab as the utility's new chairman of the board.

Haab, 55, will become the company's third chairman in the past 48 years.

Haab, also the firm's president and chief executive officer, was elected to the additional post of chairman at a June 12 meeting of the utility's 13-member board. He will assume his new duties immediately.

Haab succeeds Wendell J. Kelley, who retired on June 1, consistent with the firm's long-standing policy of mandatory retirement for company officers at age 65.

The new chairman has been with Illinois Power for the past 26 years, holding a variety of executive positions. He was elected vice-chairman in 1983, executive vice-president in 1985, executive vice-chairman and chief financial officer and board member in 1986, president of the company in 1989 and chief executive officer in April 1991.

A graduate of Millikin University, Haab was an accountant for Price Waterhouse in St. Louis before joining Illinois Power in 1965.

Haab is a native of Fairbury, Ill., married to the former Ann Geddes of Alton.

They are parents of two daughters and a son.

Penn, Teller need dressing room for ducks

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

The Edison Theater's Ovation Series of theatrical attractions on the campus of Washington University has landed a real coup, as it kicks off its 1992 season Sept. 20-21 with a two-performance presentation of the famous Penn and Teller and their new show, "The Refrigerator Tongue."

The world famous magic variety performers, widely known for their work on stage, on television and in movies, just closed their present run on the Broadway at the Eugene O'Neill Theater Saturday night.

Previous attempts to bring the well-known act to town by different venues, including the Edison, have failed through due to the cost of the show, which is $25,000 per performance plus additional guarantees and special requests in Penn and Teller's contract.

Their agent says that Penn and Teller have agreed to do a college tour after their Broadway run," says Evy Warshawski, managing director of the Edison. "That means they had to lower their price significantly, from $25,000 per show to now they're affordable."

One of the more unusual requests Penn and Teller have made of the Edison is for their show to a specific dressing room solely for the use of the ducks in the show. The Edison says they will be happy to comply.

For ticket information call, 314-564-5444. The Edison will celebrate its 20th anniversary in St. Louis during the 1992-93 season. Plans are under way to present a banner series of theatrical attractions celebrating the theater's two decades in the performing arts in St. Louis.
